The following is a summary of the moths and butterflies recorded in the Bailiwick of Guernsey during 2008. The summary includes both light trap records and sightings by myself together with all other records passed on to me by other recorders. In particular I would like to thank Trevor Bourgaize, Jane Cleal, Peter Costen, Mark Lawlor, Tim Peet, Wayne Turner and David Wedd. I have also included records from the Rothamsted trap and would like to express my thanks to the staff at Plant Health Services for continuing to set and empty the trap.

For the second consecutive year numbers of both moths and butterflies were very disappointing with less immigration, many fewer new records and a considerable drop in numbers of even the commoner moths.

Over the weekend of 13th – 15th June Zoë Randle and Phil Sterling visited the island to promote the recently launched Moth Count Project and we were joined by Roger and Margaret Long from Jersey and David Wedd from Alderney. There was a visit to Herm on the Saturday where much of the time was taken up with an interview and filming for a news item of BBC Guernsey television but there was also a bit of time to do a bit of entomology. In the evening Zoë gave a talk outlining the project and answering questions from the small but select band of enthusiasts attending. After the talk we all went to marshy land at the Track Marais off Victoria avenue and spent a couple of hours with a mercury vapour and an actinic trap. The target species was the Water Ermine but although this species was not found a total of 47 species was recorded. On the Sunday morning we all convened at Peter and Pat Coste’s house to open several traps and benefit from hints on identification and generally discussing moths. Once the ‘hard work’ was done we adjourned to a local hostel for a bite to eat. I would like to thank Peter and Pat for hosting the morning session and for their very generous hospitality which was enjoyed by all.

In his 1997 Presidential Address to the British Entomological & Natural History Society David Agassiz highlighted the confusion between Coleophora alcyonipennella and C. frischella. Peter Costen and Mark Lawlor have dissected several specimens and proved that both species occur in Guernsey.

Mark Lawlor trapped an micro on 25th August 2005 and a further three in the late summer of 2007. With the help of Peter Costen and Phil Sterling it was identified as Opogona omoscopa, a species new to the Channel Islands.

Alderney continues to be extremely well recorded by David Wedd and a complete summary for both the micro and macro moths can be found on the Alderney Record Centre web site. There is no need to duplicate this information so I have only included newly recorded species and those for which there are specific dates.

David Wedd visited Sark between 16th and 19th June operating a blended light inside Room 24! of Stock’s Hotel as well as recording sightings during the day.

The butterfly recorders continue to provide records and I would particularly like to thank Ian Hall, Chris de la Mare, Andy Smith and Liz Thomson for their excellent work.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone who has taken the trouble to pass on their records. In this rapidly changing world it is only by keeping good records that we can monitor changes.

Where monthly counts are given for species these are not necessarily exact totals but are intended to give a good indication of flight times and/or relative monthly abundance and refer to Guernsey records only.

The order and species numbers used in the summary are as used by J. D. Bradley in ‘Checklist of Lepidoptera Recorded from the British Isles’ published in 1998 and incorporating subsequent updated nomenclature published in various journals. Taxonomic changes have taken place since Bradley and Fletcher originally assigned each species an identifying number but, for ease of reference, I have kept the list in strict numerical order.

The species added to the island lists were as follows:-
